CLASS HISTORY

After striving for 12 years, we have at last reached that long-looked for goal, that of graduating from the 12th grade.

In '43 we drifted into our Freshman year. It was hectic at first, but finally we decided to settle down to being good high school students. Miss Grieser sponsored our class. Class elections ran as follows: President, Marilyn Beck; Vice President, James Dean; Secretary-Treasurer, Virginia Parrish. We chose blue and white as our class colors; Cala Lily as our class flower; and our motto "Success Awaits at Labor's Gates."

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

James Dean	- - -	Reporter
Norma Schubert	- - - -
- - - - -	- - -	Vice President
Marilou Woodruff	- - - -
- - -	- - -	Secretary-Treasurer
Donald Roberts	-	President

Our Sophomore year was the next step. Mary Lowell led us through that year as class sponsor. The class officers were: President, Dale Wisner; Vice President, Don Bechtel; Secretary, Norma Schubert; Treasurer, Carolyn Richards.

Our next task was that of being Juniors. We presented the comedy "Her Emergency Husband" as our Junior play which was successful. We had many good and also trying times preparing for the customary Jr.-Sr. Banquet which turned out very well under the excellent supervision of Virginia Reber, our class sponsor for that year. Class elections were: President, Donald Bechtel; Vice President, Norma Schubert; Secretary-Treasurer, Doris Bayless; Reporter, Ruth Tanner.

Now came the real test, the climax, the job of being Seniors. Results of class elections were: President, Donald Roberts; Vice President, Norma Schubert; Secretary-Treasurer, Marilou Woodruff with Franklin Deeds as Sponsor.

AL BASS, FINDLAY, OHIO

CLASS HISTORY

The results of fine co-operation were exhibited in the presentation of the Senior play "Grandad Steps Out." Two chicken dinners were given by the class! Another feat was the publishing of the "Scarlet and Gray" in which we took great pride.

On May 9 we were entertained by the Juniors at the Elks. We now reached the climax of our school life, Baccalaureate and Commencement.

We owe much of our future success to the teaching and teachers of Van-lue School and we shall never forget the good times we had there.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Sometime ago, upon awakening in the forepart of the night, I found myself tormented by pangs of hunger. Having indulged in a rather sumptuous supper, I thought the experience strange; still unable to fall asleep, I arose and ate some sour pickles, a hamburger and finished with a bottle of coke. Although this combination was surely not wise, it was all I had in the house. After eating I strolled out on the porch to cool off, for it was a warm night. Gazing forlornly at the moon I was suddenly startled by a brilliant light passing rapidly through the sky. I rushed back into the house and grabbed my coke bottle to focus it on the rapidly disappearing light. After watching until it passed from my sight, I went quickly out to the garage, climbed into my helicopter and dashed to the place where it had disappeared. While searching for a place to land I was quite startled to hear a voice speaking to me. Glancing down I saw that I had accidentally left my radio on. Turning the volume a little higher I was surprised to hear the voice of Calvin McCormick giving me my landing directions.

After I had landed I called a taxi to take me on a tour of this amazing city. While waiting for it I crossed to a near-by hamburger stand, for suddenly I felt very hungry again. As I watched the girl who took my order, the door marked "Proprietor" opened and out walked a frail little woman wearing horn-rimmed glasses. Something seemed familiar about her, but it wasn't until she took off her glasses and began combing her pretty blonde hair, that I recognized her as my old friend, Marilyn Beck. I had just said "hello" when I was frightened by the squealing of brakes. Looking up I saw my taxi round the corner on two wheels. Just as I was about to enter, the driver said, "Pardon me, but don't I know you?" Glancing at him I immediately recognized Raymond Hendricks. I don't believe he had grown even an inch.

The first building at which we stopped was similar to the courthouse in my home town of Vanlue. After passing several offices I came to a sign which read "Matrimonial Agency, Two Flights Up." Still being single I decided to go up, hoping I might find some handsome man that would be mine for the asking. As I shyly approached the door I was shocked to see Paul Newcomer solemnly reading the marriage vows to a young couple. Forgetting my former intention, I rushed quickly back down the stairs for I didn't want him to see me there.

Ordering Raymond to drive on, I decided to view the city. This didn't turn out to be such a brilliant idea for Raymond drove much too fast for me to see anything. Later we stopped at the concert where a famous musician was scheduled to appear. A hush fell upon the audience and out on the stage walked Maestro Don Roberts! After playing several numbers on his bass drum he motioned for his soloist to come out. Marilou Woodruff appeared. The concert ended by Maestro Roberts accompanying "Song Bird Woodruff" to "Cheer For Old Vanlue."

After leaving the concert I discovered that I was thirsty, so I decided to walk down the boulevard to see if I could find a drugstore. There were several beauty parlors on the other side, one of which looked quite expensive. Looking about for the name, I was amazed to find that it was owned and operated by Jack Marshall.

Farther down the street I saw a crowd of people waiting in line. Wondering what it was all about I asked a lady. She informed me that they were waiting to see Dr. Sherick, a famous specialist.

Finally I found a drug store and went in to order my coke. The waitress, Doris Bayless informed me that she had been working here for several years, but just after 5:00 o'clock. She taught at the University during the day.

When I came out I noticed a ladies hat store down the street. A sign in the window stated that they fashioned their own hats. As I hadn't had a new hat for sometime I decided to go in. Imagine my surprise when I found that it was owned and operated by James Dean.

Glancing at my watch I found I just had time to see a movie before I went to supper. Going over to a newsstand to get a paper I was amazed to find Virginia Parrish. She had succeeded in becoming the leading lawyer in town. She said that Norma Schubert and Ruth Tanner had married and both had large families. After reading the ads I decided on a little theater not far from the airport. I was rather tired when I finally got seated so I didn't pay much attention to the news reel. Then as the show started I was suddenly astounded to see the name, Helen McCormick, appear as producer and director.

When I came out of the theater I looked at my watch and saw that it was supper time. Going back to Marilyn's hamburger stand I asked her if she knew of a place where I could get some French fries. She said that if I waited a minute she would show me one. Soon she came out with her hat and coat and we started. We hadn't gone very far until we came to the cutest little sandwich shop I have been seen. The moment I entered I felt at home. For standing behind the counter peeling potatoes was Herb Hendricks. At his side was Dale Wisner very carefully frying them, and the waiter coming toward us was none other than Don Bechtel.

After I had finished my delicious French fries I went back to my helicopter and started home. I was very thankful for my trip for some of my friends here had been asking about my former classmates.

BAND

The first appearance of the band was made at the first home football game with 27 members and 6 majorettes taking part. Under the excellent supervision of Mr. Holtkamp the band furnished entertainment between the acts of the Senior play and at a P. T. A. meeting. In April the band went to Mt. Blanchard to play for the tri-school program.

Several members entered contests at Bowling Green, also the final appearance of the band was made at the spring concert.

Band uniforms, the project sponsored by the P. T. A., are on order and anxiously awaited by all members.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club under the excellent direction of Mr. Balmer furnished music for several chapel programs. Forty members took part. In October we made our first public appearance at the P. T. A. meeting. Some of our songs "Awake, 'Tis Spring," "Estrellita," and "Kentucky Babe" were sung in the tri-school program at Mt. Blanchard. The final appearance of the Glee Club was made at a spring concert in May.

A girls' trio, composed of Marilyn Beck, Ruth Tanner, and Carolyn Richards sang for banquets and chapel programs.

Ann Gorsuch was the accompanist for the trio and glee club.

F. H. A.

During September we helped in the Regional F. F. A. Officers Banquet. Officers for the year of 1946-47 were chosen. They are:

President	Marilou Woodruff
Vice-President	Virginia Parrish
Secretary	Reita Hendricks
Treasurer	Betty Casteel
Reporter	Irma Russell

In October a Regional F. H. A. meeting was held at the Donnell Stadium in Findlay. Bonnie Crawford was chosen as Treasurer, and Dorothy Cook, Vice-President. Another Regional meeting was held at Liberty, and new members were initiated. A game supper was enjoyed by the F. F. A. and F. H. A. members of Vanlue. In January the F. H. A. contributed money toward the new refrigerator in the Home Economics room. During a monthly meeting held at school we wrote a letter to the F. F. A. members containing "What We Don't Like About Boys." We also received a letter in return, "What We Don't Like About Girls." In February we were very busy serving the School Masters Banquet. Our annual spring F. F. A. and F. H. A. banquet concluded our F. H. A. activities for this year.

For Pete's Sake!

Peter Pepperdine, nephew of rich Sarah Pepperdine invites his pal, Bill Bradshaw to live with him through the summer. His aunt disapproved of Bill's and Peter's girl friends, Pete's Latin grade, and his school activities. Mrs. Clarkston, Nadine's mother wants to rent the house so Pete tells all he is going abroad with his aunt and rents her house. Actually he, Bill, and Muggsy, Pete's college friend and Latin coach, dress as butler, gardener, and maid respectively so they can remain in the house while the girls entertain their alleged suitors, John Boliver and Dupont Darby, whom their mother wants them to marry. They try to keep these two from proposing, and the ensuing events send everyone into a spasm of laughter. Pete talks of roses, while Bill tickles Peg's neck with his whiskers, she blaming Dupont. Following these events, Malvina Potts, Muggsy's heart-throb arrives, gets suspicious, and accuses the three servants of murdering Muggsy and Peter. To top it all off Aunt Sarah cancels her trip and returns the next day. Bill dresses as a ghost, and tries to scare everybody out of the house, but he is too late. As Aunt Sarah enters one door, the three exit swiftly upstairs. Bill soon rushes in with news that he almost caught the three varmints who overpowered Pete and Muggsy. Of course, the culprits were the boys in disguise. The maid was believed to have rented Clarkston the house. Everything turns out all right with the girls accepting their heroes, and Mrs. Clarkston approving them, too.

Grandad Steps Out

Grandad, who has been ill a year, is still considered an invalid by his daughter, Mrs. Morton. She feeds him nothing but soup while he dreams of thick, juicy steaks. Grandad's boyhood friend, "Big Jim Mahoney," arrives and plans to get Grandad out of the house to attend a steak supper at the Greasy Spoon. Unfortunately all Grandad's clothes are in storage, but Kip, his grandson, has a suit. They bribe Tilly, the maid, to get Kip's clothes and lie on the sofa and pretend to be Grandad. They sneak out of the house.

Kip, who has a movie date with all three of the triplets, finds his suit missing. Betty and Jack find Grandad missing and they call in the police. Mrs. Jobe Feeney arrives, looking for her husband who is also attending the supper. Miss Abby, the nosey old maid across the street, comes over to answer the phone while the officer and family are out searching for Grandad. Miss Abby sees and hears many mysterious things. Grandad and Big Jim slip into the house and retire for the night.

The family returns and finds Grandad safe at home. Miss Abby, who is still a bit nervous, is escorted to her home by Big Jim Mahoney.

Keys to Achievement

Keys not carried in the pocket or the purse. But in the mind.

Keys that open not just ordinary doors . . . but vast areas of achievement in the sciences, the arts, the humanities.

It is one of the purposes of education not only to fit the student with a basic ring of keys to knowledge . . . but also to teach him how to make his own keys for all the doors to achievement he will want to open throughout his life.

How many keys to achievement are needed? Enough to keep one busy for a lifetime, fashioning them out of knowledge, reason and experience. For no matter how many doors you unlock, there is always another door to even greater achievement still to be opened.

It was rather embarrassing to Glen T. when the teacher asked him how to spell "weather", but he tried, anyway. "W-E-T-H-I-R," Glen fumbled. "That," said the teacher when he had finished, "is about the worst spell of 'weather' we've had around here in years."

—:—

Miss Oman: "Don't you know the difference between ammonia and pneumonia?"

Fish: "Sure, one comes in bottles and the other in chests."

"I think a sharp nose usually means a great deal of curiosity."
